Manifestaciones cutáneas de neoplasias malignas internas (Spanish Edition) Nelson Edgardo Driban, Florencia Galdeano de Acosta, María Luisa Poljak

Este libro aborda, recopila y estudia las dermatosis que guardan relación con patologías neoplásicas internas. Integra no sólo las de origen paraneoplásico y las enfermedades genéticas de la piel con riesgo de desarrollar un tumor interno, sino también muchos otros problemas dermatológicos en los que se han descrito la existencia, con distintas frecuencias, de malignidad interna.

Manifestaciones cutáneas de neoplasias malignas internas reúne por primera vez datos hasta ahora dispersos en la literatura médica, y los sistematiza a partir de un elemento común, la enfermedad de la piel, centrándose en la detección de tumores internos.

Dirigida a dermatólogos, clínicos, oncólogos y pediatras, la presente obra expone antecedentes históricos de cada una de las lesiones, sinonimia, clínica e historia natural, etiología, fisiopatogenia, asociación tumoral, laboratorio, anatomía patológica, diagnóstico diferencial y tratamiento, e incluye bibliografía actualizada.

Sus autores forman un cualificado grupo de profesionales, entre los cuales se encuentran no solo dermatólogos, sino también especialistas en gastroenterología, oncología e informática oncológica. Todos ellos aportan sus múltiples estudios y experiencias sobre el tema.
